CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

1. Analyze ways in which political forces influence resources for nursing doctoral education, and strategies for procuring resources;
2. Identify multiple skills necessary to procure resources to assure high quality doctoral education and research, and develop strategies to facilitate research collaboration within INDEN and worldwide;
3. Identify and analyze provision of student experiences within resource constraints to assure development of skills expected of scholars to function effectively in health care environments of the future;

4. Analyze international trends in the content of doctoral education and what motivates such trends;
5. Consider a variety of doctoral program types internationally, and evaluate their contribution to nursing science and nursing practice.
