

Latin for Reading
LESSON 2

SO FAR	BEGINNING WITH THIS LESSON
-parts of speech: noun and verb	-part of speech: coordinating conjunction
-one of the “big 3” categories used in connectors describing the components of a sentence: the kernel.	-another of the “big 3”: connectors. (The third of the big 3, modifiers, will first appear in Lesson 4.)
-words in a sentences are parts of the kernel	-words in a sentence are part of the kernel or are connectors
-each complete sentence has one clause and therefore one kernel	-a sentence may have more than one clause and therefore more than one kernel
-idea of completeness of expression	-The Gap: words necessary for completeness are not always expressed
-expectations based on the idea of completeness	-expectations of gapped items
-any kernel item raises the expectation of other kernel parts.	-an expected item may be gapped but can be recovered from another clause.
