The Art & Etiquette of Tea

February 20th, 2010
8:30AM—4:00PM

Workshop begins at the International Institute, University of Michigan Central Campus. School of Social Work Building, Room 1644, 1080 S. University St., Ann Arbor, MI and ends at the University of Michigan Museum of Art. Details to follow.

Explore the Art and Etiquette of Tea in our latest installment of the East Asia Educator’s Workshop Series: Pan-Asian Celebration. Through a cross-cultural, cross-regional approach, gain insight into the similarities and differences of tea as manifested in etiquette, ceremony, and cultural arts. Learn about the botanical properties of the Camilla sinensis plant and take part in the unique styles of tea practices demonstrated by Japanese, Korean and Chinese tea connoisseurs. Explore how tea enhanced the practice of Buddhism, stimulated the development of ceramics, and served as a form of global currency.

Community presenters, museum curators, and faculty & staff from the University of Michigan will lead educators through a day of tea tasting and tea facts with a generously-packed classroom information portfolio to help meet standards in world history and geography. A joint presentation with U-M Centers for Chinese, Japanese, and Korean Studies; Museum of Art; and Matthaei Botanical Gardens & Arboretum.
