CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES:

1. Identify strategies for international collaboration in leadership development among doctoral program faculty and students;
2. Describe how translational research and its implementation in under-resourced countries can be facilitated through collaborative relationships across doctoral programs;
3. Examine strategies for the preparation of doctoral students for involvement in health and social policy roles;
4. Discuss the role of doctoral programs in addressing the global nursing shortage;
5. Identify how doctoral education can help to address the growing disparities in health and access to health care services globally.
